Ffynnon Park is a new, recently refurbished and landscaped holiday park in Llanferres, in-between Ruthin and Mold in Denbighshire County in North Wales. The park has been designed to offer holidays to those looking for an escape from their busy everyday lives whilst surrounded by stunning natural beauty. Ffynnon Park is situated amidst an area of outstanding natural beauty, with spectacular panoramic views of the rolling hills and countryside surrounding the park.

The park is in a perfect location if you wish to explore what the rest of North Wales has to offer. The Clwydian Range of mountains is just minutes from the park, whether you're an experienced walker or are just after a light stroll to experience the beauty of the Welsh nature, there is a trail for everyone. Nearby you'll find the Welsh towns of Mold and Ruthin, if you fancy a nose around the shops and a bite to eat in one of the local restaurants and eateries. The park is also in close proximity to the roman town of Chester, where you can brush upon your history.
